OUTCOMES

Identify missed opportunities to redress long-standing inequities exacerbated by COVID-19.

Reiterate the assets of Black children and families.

Consider individual and collective work to address racism for the survival and development of Black children.

The Black Presence in Early Indiana

1746

Earliest report of African Americans from a 1746 report on French settlements: 40 White men and 5 Black people lived in Vincennes on the Wabash River.

Pre-1861

Documented reports of early Black urban and/or rural settlements in most of Indiana's 92 counties. These these included Marion, Knox, Porter, and Union.

Numerous laws and codes developed by proslavery political leaders that restricted the rights of African Americans in the Northwest Territory.

1816-

As Indiana achieved statehood, its new constitution – coupled with Indiana Supreme Court rulings – slowly eliminated slavery and indentured servitude; however, nothing was done to restore civil rights to Indiana's growing Black population, which had increased to roughly 1,230 (according to the 1820 census).

The Great Migrations

1914-1970

In Indiana, as in the South which they left, Black Americans encountered chronic discrimination and racial terrorism and lived segregated from White communities.

From their own resources, through self-help and sharing, they created their own institutions and developed a culture which was distinct, and which influenced and contributed to the mainstream culture.

MOB VIOLENCE, 1862

Indiana's 1851 Constitution banned black migration into state; blacks were barred from voting, serving in militia, bearing witness in trials involving whites, and sending children to public schools. Despite prejudice, by 1860, more than 11,000 blacks resided in Indiana. During the Civil War, more blacks escaped slavery by crossing the Ohio River at New Albany.

WHITE RACISM

AND
THE CRUMBLING
OF A CITY

The racial segregation and declining enrollment that plagues Indianapolis Public Schools today can be traced back to the decision made 46 years ago to merge Indianapolis with its surrounding suburbs.

In 200 years, the city has only had White men as its mayor.

Intersections of Racism: THE COLOR OF CORONAVIRUS

KEY FINDINGS (data collected through July 7):

Overall, actual U.S. death rates from COVID-19 data (aggregated from all states with available data and the District of Columbia) have reached new highs for all race groups:

- 1 in 1,450 Black Americans has died (or 69.7 deaths per 100K)
- 1 in 1,950 Indigenous Americans has died (or 51.3...)
- 1 in 2,450 Pacific Islander Americans has died (or 40.5...)
- 1 in 3,000 Latino Americans has died (or 33.8...)
- 1 in 3,350 White Americans has died (or 30.2...)
- 1 in 3,400 Asian Americans has died (or 29.3...)

If they had died of COVID-19 at the same actual rate as Whites, about 16,000 Blacks, 2,200 Latinos and 400 Indigenous Americans WOULD STILL BE ALIVE.

Intersections of Racism & COVID-19

Systemic Racism

Disproportionate rate of COVID-19 for BIPOC

Job loss, financial hardship

High rates of state-sponsored violence against unarmed BIPOC

Disproportionate rates of death in the face of the pandemic

Changes in the rites of passage due to social isolation

Loss of loved ones due to health problems or incarceration

Socioemotional impact on students includes increased anxiety, depression and anger (Ang, 2020)

8 WAYS A CHILD'S ANXIETY SHOWS UP AS SOMETHING ELSE

1. Anger

The perception of danger, stress or opposition is enough to trigger the fight or flight response leaving your child angry and without a way to communicate why.

2. Difficulty Sleeping

In children, having difficulty falling asleep or staying asleep is one of the hallmark characteristics of anxiety.

3. Defiance

Unable to communicate what is really going on, it is easy to interpret the child's defiance as a lack of discipline instead of an attempt to control a situation where they feel anxious and helpless.

5. Lack of Focus

Children with anxiety are often so caught up in their own thoughts that they do not pay attention to what is going on around them.

FOCUS

6. Avoidance

Children who are trying to avoid a particular person, place or task often end up experiencing more of whatever it is they are avoiding.

8. Overplanning

Overplanning and defiance go hand in hand in their root cause. Where anxiety can cause some children to try to take back control through defiant behavior, it can cause others to overplan for situations where planning is minimal or unnecessary.

4. Chandeliering

Chandeliering is when a seemingly calm person suddenly flies off the handle for no reason. They have pushed hurt and anxiety so deep for so long that a seemingly innocent comment or event suddenly sends them straight through the chandelier.

7. Negativity

People with anxiety tend to experience negative thoughts at a much greater intensity than positive ones.

Indiana's Considerations for Learning and Safe Schools
IN-CLASS

*COVID-19 Health and Safety
Re-entry Guidance*

Planning to reopen schools, educators are called to prepare to address the academic and emotional needs of students

Indiana's Considerations for Learning and Safe Schools (IN-CLASS, 2020) & Family Concerns and Questions

Considerations	Family's Concerns
State statute gives public school districts authority to exclude students who have a contagious disease such as COVID-19 To return to school after exclusion, specific conditions must be met (e.g., at least 10 calendar days have passed since symptoms first appeared)	Q: Who is going to take care of my child if I have to work? Challenge: Greater disparities for BIPOC who are essential workers and have limited flexibility for taking time off.
Provide in-person instruction to elementary students and increase distance learning opportunities for secondary grade levels. Students not attending in person should be engaged in remote/continuous learning.	Q: How is my child going to learn remotely? "I don't have a strong Internet connection at home." "I don't have a laptop or tablet my child can use to access online materials." "I don't know how to use technology well." "I don't know how to teach academic content to help my child." Challenge: Limited access to necessary tools and resources for their child's learning.
Districts and schools should develop a strong communication plan with families to discuss the delivery method of instruction for students with disabilities. An appropriate platform for delivery of special education-related services must be identified. Schools and districts must ensure that adequate staffing is available to meet the needs of all students with IEPs within the district.	Q: How is my child going to continue receiving special education and other related services if, due to health issues, s/he needs to remain at home? "During March and April my son did not receive speech and language services." "We did not receive consistent communication from the school." "There was no interpreter during the Zoom meetings to help with communication." Challenge: Inconsistent communication; limited resources

What should educators consider as schools reopen?

Eurocentric, White-Dominant Framings	Reframing with Personal Sovereignty Centered
"We need to make up for lost time."	We need to meet our students where they are at seeing them for the TOTALITY of who they are in this time and space.
"They have lost what they have learned."	What have our students gained during this time of COVID-19? What are the ways that they enter school with new knowledge and understanding of the world around them?

How can we reframe reopening for Black students, students of Color, students with dis/abilities, and students whose identities are intersectional?

What should educators consider as schools reopen?

Eurocentric, White-Dominant Framings	Reframing with Personal Sovereignty Centered
“They haven’t been supported in their learning at home.”	Black students and other students of Color arrive at our schools carrying their collective and ancestral legacies. Their legacies are rooted in rich cultural histories that should be recognized, honored, and valued. In the present moment, these students represent their families’ heritages and lineage while, at the same time, they provide dynamic momentum for shaping individual and collective futures.
“They are not able to learn.”	Students with dis/abilities at the intersection of race, language, and other identity markers, learn in a multitude of ways that are often invisible, unrecognized, or erased by those whose ideologies and understandings around learning are seeped in dominant, Eurocentric values. We need to reframe the way we consider what learning is and what it looks like in different educational contexts, including the home environment.

Fortifying Black, Indigenous & Students of Color by Creating Culturally Responsive and Sustaining Caring School Communities

Inclusive & Supportive Relationships Paired with High Expectations

- Value and respect students for the strengths they bring to the classroom
- Be a warm demander by holding high expectations, affirming students' ability and supporting them to meet expectations (Delpit, 1995)
- Practice concepts of fictive kin and other-parenting (Fordham, 1996)
- Conduct “check ins” with students creating space for open dialogue and expression of emotions

Fortifying Black, Indigenous & Students of Color by Creating Culturally Responsive and Sustaining Caring School Communities

Cultivation of Cultural Knowledge

- Promote racial literacy (Winddance Twine, 2010)
- Confront stereotypes and create counter-narratives
- Value multiple intersecting identities
- Use representative literature and other curricular materials
- Recognize families' wisdom and learn from them

Fortifying Black, Indigenous & Students of Color by Creating Culturally Responsive and Sustaining Caring School Communities

Individual & Collective Empowerment

- Support interdependency and reciprocity
- Support students in using tools and knowledge resources from multiple communities for critiquing the status quo and empowering students to make decisions that will lead to social change towards a just community (Stovall, 2006; Gay, 2010; Aronson & Laughter 2015).
